Lisa and Paulina are friends. Read their dialogue about summer holidays. / Lísa a Paulína sú kamarátky. Prečítaj si ich rozhovor a letných prázdninách.

Lisa: Summer holidays are near. I'm so happy.

Paulina: Yes, they are. What do you usually do on holidays?

Lisa: My parents, my brother and I always go to the seaside. We often go to Bournemouth.

Paulina: Oh, Bournemouth is nice. Where do you stay? In a hotel?

Lisa: No, we usually stay in a house near the sea because my mum doesn't like staying in a hotel. She says that in the house we can do what we want. She is right. I like going out in the garden and playing. I don't want to stay in a hotel room. It's boring.

Paulina: Do you have your own room in that house?

Lisa: Yes, I do. It's not very big, but it's OK.

Paulina: What does your brother do on holidays?

Lisa: Oh, he usually meets some friends and then they often fish and play football. He doesn't stay at home much; he is around with his friends all day and he never goes with us to the beach.

Paulina: Does your father go with you to the beach?

Lisa: Sometimes he does, but he often cycles. In the afternoons he usually rents a boat for an hour or two and we ski on water. It's fantastic. Where do you usually go for your holidays?

Paulina: Oh, we often fly to Brazil, where my aunt lives. It's winter in Brazil at that time so I swim in the swimming pool. We also travel a lot around Brazil and I like it very much.
